

When the world trembled

*The clouds grew grey
And then they burst.
Both fast and furiously.
Then the rains began
With a thunderous roar
But the world stood still, trembling.*

*A child cried out,
He hugged his mother tight.
As they watched
Their home,
come crashing down
But the world stood still trembling.*

*No food to eat
No water to drink
Two days had passed
With open eyes
Drowned was the entire town
Yet the world stood still, trembling.*

*The horror prevailed
thousands died,
His mother too was gone.
No one to hug, no one to love
And the world stood still trembling.*

*As the boy waited
with bated breath,
The clouds grew deadly grey,
Still the wind blew wild
Without a pause
And the world stood still, trembling*

-Visheeta Chandolia

X-G (International)

RBK School, Mira Road